MIT’s Lincoln Laboratory (http://www.ll.mit.edu), in Lexington, MA, is operated as a federally funded center for research and development of advanced technologies in support of national defense.

Lincoln Laboratory’s activities focus on design and development of complex systems, usually incorporating new technologies, devices, and components. The Laboratory’s mission areas are communication systems; space control; air and missile defense technology; intelligence/surveillance/reconnaissance systems and technology; advanced electronics technology; tactical systems; homeland protection; cyber security; and air traffic control.

Lincoln Laboratory Beaverworks is a campus resource that supports project based learning. Contact Beaverworks (llbw-info@ll.mit.edu) or call 617-324-7457.

The Laboratory offers student employment opportunities, which may be viewed on its website (http://www.ll.mit.edu).